

THOMAS D. GANLEY

An Ohio native, Tom Ganley is the President and CEO of the Ganley Auto Group. He started his career with a Rambler dealership in 1968, and now heads the largest automotive group in the State of Ohio, comprised of 27 dealerships and other entities that employs over 1500 people.

Tom also lends his business acumen and leadership abilities to serving the community. In May of 2001, he was named President and CEO of Crime Stoppers of Northern Ohio. Funded in part by Tom's personal support and other private donations, this organization offers cash rewards for crime tipsters. Additionally, he has funded and appeared in both radio and TV advertising making a personal plea to citizens to become involved in fighting crime and cooperating with our police.

A staunch support of the law enforcement community in Greater Cleveland, his philanthropy and outstanding leadership has earned him numerous awards from several law enforcement organizations, including the Cuyahoga County Police Chief's Association, the Cleveland Police Patrolman's Association, the Greater Cleveland Peace Officers Memorial Society; and the Cleveland Safety Forces Gold and Silver Award.

In 2007, Tom received the Louis E. Peters Memorial Service Award, the highest honor given by the Former Agents of the FBI, awarded for service to his country. He is, also, a member of the U.S. Marshall's Posse Group. He has been a featured speaker at the National Academy Ethics Conference by the Cleveland Division of the FBI. Likewise, he was the keynote speaker at the Annual Convention of the Ohio Chiefs of Police, 2006.

Tom and his wife, Lois, have been married for 48 years, having 4 children and 8 grandchildren.
