

FOUNDERS AWARD

Three gentlemen were instrumental in the creation of the Cleveland Police Foundation. The “Founding Fathers” – Edward A. Lozick, Thomas D. Ganley and Samuel H. Miller – had the foresight, desire and determination to establish a foundation in support of the members of the Cleveland Division of Police and the collective mission of the police charities under its umbrella. With this award named in their honor, we are proud to bestow the 2013 Founders Award to David F. Young in recognition of the founder’s vision, spirit and dedication to making our community safer.

DAVID F. YOUNG
FOUNDERS AWARD

David F. Young was born to parents Jane (Fischer) and Edward Young, both of whom are lifetime Clevelanders, and was raised on the East side, along with brother Stan.

He earned a Bachelors of Arts in Economics at Williams College and an M.B.A. in Marketing and Finance from the University of Michigan. It was at UM that he met his wife of thirty years, Judy. Dave and Judy have four children.

After a postgraduate stint in Boston, Dave returned home to Cleveland, where he has been involved in small businesses ever since. He is the President of Budzar Industries, Inc. which designs and manufactures temperature control equipment for a broad spectrum of industries, including chemical, food, metalworking, paper, petroleum, pharmaceutical, power, plastic, rubber, steel, medical, and semi-conductor.

To the good fortune of The Cleveland Police Foundation, Dave served on the Board of Directors for two years, and was very instrumental in getting the organization up and running. His staunch support of the Foundation during the formation years was crucial to the progress and continued success of the efforts of the CPF.

It is with sincere gratitude and great honor that The Cleveland Police Foundation bestows upon David F. Young, the 2013 Founders Award. Thank you Dave, for your wisdom, advice, business acumen and partnership – we are proud to call you “friend”.
